Hon.Evans McNiel Rogers:

The Bill has been moved and seconded I now call upon the mover of the Bill to explain its objectives and reasons

Hon.Premier Cora Richardson Hodge:

Thank you Mr Speaker I rise to present a Supplementary Appropriation Bill number two of 2026 and to seek this Honourable House's approval for additional expenditure of EC 39.38 million Mr Speaker I want to begin by being clear about what is before us this is not just a set of revised budget figures these decisions concern the electricity bills facing households and businesses, the medical care needed by people in our community the resolution of financial matters that have remained outstanding for years and the assets and institutions we must build a tangula is to be better prepared for the future every dollar of public money matters it matters to the family deciding how to stretch its income to the patient waiting for medical treatment to the contributor whose

Social Security funds must be protected and to the taxpayer who expects government to account for its decisions that is why this budget must be examined carefully and why the explanation must be complete the additional provision sought is EC 39.38 million dollars EC 27.58 million in recurrent expenditure and EC 11.8 million in capital expenditure the recurrent provision includes 9.18 million for public assistance in support of fuel surcharge relief EC 2.4 million for medical treatment overseas and EC 16 million under the treasury's claims against government allocation in relation to Cinnamon Reef Property. the capital provision supports the proposed acquisition of accommodation for Anguilla's UK office with these adjustments the revised expenditure budget will increase from EC 657.631 million to EC 697.011 million comprising EC 454.405 million in recurrent expenditure and EC 242.606 million in capital expenditure I welcome scrutiny of every one of these proposals scrutiny is not a threat to responsible government it is part of responsible government but scrutiny must look at the purpose of the spending the obligations it addresses the safeguards around it and the consequences of failing to act the question is not merely whether the number is large, the question is what is it for what controls apply and whether the proposed course is responsible for Anguilla Mr Speaker the additional 9.18 million under the ministry of finance's public assistance allocation supports the continuation of government's fuel surcharge relief program when the fuel surcharge rose sharply earlier this year the impact reached directly into homes and businesses an electricity bill is not an optional expense when it rises families have less money for groceries school needs and other essentials small businesses face higher operating costs and difficult decisions about prices passing on increased prices to customers and employment intervened because we recognised that pressure and the effect it could have across our economy for a parent, this relief means more room for groceries, household bills, school expenses and the ordinary necessities of family life for the owner of a small business it can mean keeping the doors open and keeping people employed this is not abstract policy this is protection with a direct and practical effect this fuel subsidy program has supported customer bills from April usage and was extended to cover June through August because the pressure remain significant under those arrangements households and most customer classes contributed 42 cents per kilowatt hour towards the fuel surcharge while tourist accommodation contributed 65 cents per kilowatt hour government met the approved difference between those contributions and the applicable surcharge we did not ask our people to carry a loan a burden they did not create Mr Speaker the scale of this intervention should be understood by the end of August usage reflected in bills through September this government had provided approximately 22.5 million dollars in direct electricity relief the revised forecast for september through December usage is approximately 12.54 million dollars and current planning assumptions cumulative support through December usage would therefore be approximately 35.04 million EC dollars the December usage component will appear in January 2027 Bills Mr Speaker this is an extraordinary national commitment real relief placed directly between our people and the fuel surcharge that would otherwise have landed with full force on every household and every business across our region governments have introduced worthwhile measures but few have committed support of this magnitude particularly for a population and the economy of our size Anguilla did not merely acknowledge the hardship Anguilla acted the EC 9.18 million now before this house is the additional appropriation being sought at this stage towards the program it is part of the funding for the support described and should not be confused with the total cost of the program we cannot shield every consumer from the full cost of electricity indefinitely relief must have a path forward as we move forward, assistance must become more focused on those who continue to need it most that transition must be managed fairly and with reasonable time to adjust. and that is why support is becoming more targeted for September through December usage households apartments public services and the eligible store and shop category remain protected as a fuel surcharge contribution of 42 cents per kilowatt hour other eligible commercial customers remain at 42 cents for September usage moved to 52 cents for October usage and then to 65 cents for November and December usage hotels villas guest houses and associated tourist accommodation accounts outside the support program for September usage this approach continues protection for households and designated services while phasing other eligible commercial customers towards a greater contribution it recognises both sides of our responsibility to provide relief where the pressure is felt and to manage the public cost of that relief Mr Speaker caring for what people requires us to think beyond the next electricity Bill the family receiving this relief also needs a functioning health service their children need properly supported schools their community needs reliable infrastructure we have to provide for all of those needs from the same public purse it would be easy to promise that every form of assistance will continue unchanged responsible government requires us to be honest about the choices we must also work towards an electricity system that leaves us less exposed to the price of imported fuel energy efficiency, renewable generation and a more resilient system are essential to that effort our aim must be to help people manage the pressure today while investing in lasting improvements that reduce the need for relief tomorrow Mr Speaker it is important that I highlight that by the end of this year 2026 the government of Anguilla will have provided overall fuel subsidy support in the total sum of EC 53.61 million dollars this includes import duty exemption and gasoline and diesel gasoline excise exemption, electricity fuel surcharge support and CIF to FOB customs valuation relief this EC 53.61 million is an impressive amount all of which has been dedicated to helping the people of Anguilla Mr Speaker this supplementary budget provides a further 2.4 million for medical treatment overseas the program's original allocation within the ministry of Social Development was approximately 3.44 million dollars in June a further EC 3 million was provided the additional 2.4 million now sought would bring the allocation to approximately 8.84 million, EC 5.4 million in supplementary funding above the original allocation even with that increase the need continues. on present expectations we anticipate spending more than 10 million on overseas medical treatment by the end of this year supported by reallocations within the existing budget that forecast makes one point unmistakable the demand for necessary care is greater than the original provision anticipated behind these figures are people waiting for care a family may learn in a single afternoon that a loved one needs treatment overseas alongside the fair and uncertainty of illness come arrangements for travel accommodations and sometimes a companion for many families finding those funds at short notice is a serious challenge our people deserve to be treated with dignity and understanding when they seek help a patient should be able to understand the process know what information is required and receive a clear response.

The administration of this support matters because families seeking medical assistance are often already under considerable strain these funds are provided through medical advances. Government advances funds to help eligible persons access necessary overseas care subject to the applicable assessment and approval arrangements. Proper accounting and recovery including repayment where required remain part of those arrangements. compassion and accountability are not competing principles, both are necessary if the program is to continue helping people who need it.

The repeated need to increase this allocation also reinforces the importance of advancing work on National Health Insurance Our people need greater security in how healthcare is financed a workable arrangement must be clear about the services covered, access to treatment locally and overseas, protection for people who cannot afford to contribute and the long-term cost of sustaining the promised benefits. Health coverage has real value only when people can obtain the consultation medicine or treatment they need, that is why financing reform must go hand in hand with stronger health services and careful attention to the capacity of available here in Anguilla but we cannot ask a patient who needs treatment now to wait for a future system. People are becoming ill today the need cannot be postponed until reform is complete.

We must continue to support eligible patients through the existing medical advance arrangements while working towards a more secure and sustainable approach We will not apologise for helping an eligible patient obtain necessary treatment We will account for the money advanced apply the required procedures and insist on proper administration. The obligation is clear. Compassion for the person, responsibility for the public funds and continued work towards a health system that gives families greater certainty. Mr Speaker this supplementary budget also provides for three additional positions in our Health Services one internist and two pharmacists this increases the authorised complement of internists from two to three and pharmacists from four to six.

The additional internists will help strengthen adult medical services particularly for patients with complex or ongoing conditions who need specialist assessment and continuing treatment. The two additional pharmacists will help make medicines more readily available through clinics at both ends of the island, for an elderly resident a person with limited mobility or someone who depends on a relative for transport traveling to the central polyclinic can be a real burden. Where pharmacy services can safely be provided closer to home people should have a better opportunity to obtain the medication and advice without making an unnecessary journey. These posts support a practical objective to strengthen care in Anguilla and reduce affordable overseas referrals.

Some treatment will continue to require travel and we must provide for that but wherever care can safely and effectively be delivered here we should build the capacity to deliver it well. There is reassurance in receiving good care close to family and community. The current year personal emoluments provision remains unchanged in the revised estimates These additions provide establishment authority for recruitment continuing costs will be reflected in future budgets as the positions are filled. That distinction matters the House is being asked to authorise the positions while the continuing financial implications must be addressed through the normal budget process I thank our health professionals and support teams their skill judgment and compassion make a difference every day often under difficult conditions government has a responsibility not only to recognise their work but also to strengthen the teams and services on which our community depends Mr Speaker fiscal discipline does not mean ignoring obligations because they are difficult or because they began on the previous administrations It means establishing the facts dealing with legitimate claims through proper processes, negotiating sound terms and ensuring that commitments are affordable.

Leaving a matter unresolved does not make it disappear, it can prolong uncertainty and complicate the management of public finances In supplementary budget number one provision of EC 10 million dollars was made under claims against government towards long standing obligations to Anglec including the outstanding balance arising from the former water corporation judgment and related matters. that provision supported anticipated payments under an arrangement requiring the necessary approvals. This is separate from the fuel surcharge relief described earlier one is support for customer bills, while the other addresses outstanding obligations to the utility company. Greater certainty about outstanding payments helps Anglec plan its finances and the investment needed in our electricity system.

The details of those obligations must be handled through the relevant approvals and arrangements with the public interest and proper accountability kept firmly in view. Mr Speaker, the present supplementary budget makes provision of EC 16 million under the treasury's claims against government allocation to advance the proposed resolution of the cinnamon reef matter. Given the size of this provision the people of Anguilla are entitled to a clear explanation of its purpose and to safeguards that must apply. The matter has its origins in the acquisition of the cinnamon reef property in little harbor by ACIDCO the investment subsidiary of the Anguilla Social Security Board in 2009 and the lease and purchase arrangement entered into with government in 2010.

That arrangement did not proceed as originally anticipated as a result of the worldwide economic downturn over the years financial and property matters have remained in need of an agreed conclusion. There are two practical objectives in seeking a resolution first, an agreed settlement would release funds for the Social Security board to invest for the benefit of our people. Those resources should be earning returns and helping the Board meet its responsibilities to contributors and beneficiaries. Second we want the Cinnamon Reef Property to be available for productive use after many years of standing on used. Government is working towards a negotiated resolution that would allow social security to recover its verified net investment and bring the property into government ownership on agreed terms a training facility was proposed in the past but no decision has been taken on the property's future use the objective is to put this asset to work in a way that makes practical and financial sense for Anguilla.

The EC 16 million in this supplementary budget is a partial budgetary provision to advance that process. tt is not a statement that every detail has been settled, the final amount and the terms remain subject to verification agreement legal advice and the necessary approvals. Any payment must be supported by properly approved arrangements that bring the matters covered by the settlement to a clear conclusion. That is the standard we must apply, we must protect the financial position of social security, respect the public finances and ensure that any agreement is supported by evidence and appropriate approvals. we must also recognise the cost of allowing an unresolved matter to continue indefinitely on the government's books responsible government requires us to work towards a fair and properly documented conclusion not to leave a difficult issue untouched year after year.

Mr Speaker this supplementary budget includes 11.8 million dollars to support the proposed acquisition of permanent accommodation for Anguilla's office in the United Kingdom. As the process has progressed government has continued to assess accommodation options against our operational requirements, suitability for long-term use and the overall investment involved. the current position is at a nonbinding offer has been accepted and due diligence is ongoing.

The proposed purchase remains subject to contract satisfactory completion of legal and technical checks and the required approvals. Our aim is to complete the purchase before the end of 2026 provided those requirements are met. It is important to distinguish between a budgetary provision and a completed transaction. This House is being asked to provide for the proposal, the acquisition itself must still pass the necessary checks and approvals.

The 11.8 million must be assessed against the full cost of the purchase, any works required and the continuing cost of operating and maintaining the premises. The quality of our representation and the value of obtained for Anguilla must remain central to the decision. why does this matter? Anguilla needs a consistent voice in the places where decisions affecting us are made our relationship with the united kingdom requires sustained attention.

It involves engagement with the UK Government and parliament following through on issues affecting our island building partnerships and presenting Anguilla's priorities to institutions and organisations with which we need to work that work does not begin and end with ministerial visits. It requires continuity relationships and follow through there is also an opportunity to strengthen connections with Anguillans in the United Kingdom and create avenues for cooperation in education, investment professional development and I.T. A permanent office would provide a stable and recognisable base from which our representatives can do that work and pursue opportunities for our people.

The primary purpose includes supporting effective representation and turning relationships into practical benefits for Anguilla. At the same time no national asset should be acquired without financial discipline scrutiny of this proposal is proper the proposal should be judged on its actual terms the full cost, the safeguards in the transaction and the value it can deliver. We will provide further information as a process advances the decision must be grounded in due diligence and the public purpose the investment is intended to serve. Mr Speaker, the revised establishment creates a financial services development and promotion unit within the Ministry of Finance with provision for a director, a financial services development officer and the financial services promotion officer.

Anguilla must continue to broaden the opportunities available to our people. Financial Services can contribute to careers professional development and economic activity here at home but the sector does not develop simply because we wish it to. Real growth in the sector requires dedicated capacity to research opportunities, engage with industry, improve the framework where necessary and present the jurisdiction credibly in markets where we seek to compete. the unit will bring together policy research, sector development and international promotion. it will examine market opportunities support proposals to improve our financial services framework engage with industry and help promote Anguilla's capabilities.

This work will be undertaken with the Financial Services Commission, The Attorney General's Chambers, The International Tax Cooperation Unit and other relevant agencies. The commission's regulatory responsibilities remain distinct development and promotion must support not compromise the integrity and reputation of our jurisdiction. A stronger sector can create opportunities for Anguillians to develop specialised skills and use those skills here rather than having to look elsewhere for every professional opportunity. we must work consistently with the industry and understand where Anguilla can compete effectively.

The growth of .ai has demonstrated the value that the national asset can create it has also reminded us of the importance of building strength across other parts of our economy. A dedicated unit gives government the capacity to pursue financial services development in a more organised and sustained way. The salaries associated with the new positions will be accommodated from identified savings within the ministry's existing personal emoluments budget for the current year future requirements will be considered through the normal budget process.

Other establishment adjustments support education information systems and the phased development of a one stop service in the motor vehicles unit taken together these changes are intended to strengthen government's capacity to deliver its responsibilities. Mr Speaker, let me address directly what the revised budget means as we approach the end of the year, when people hear that the expenditure budget is rising to approximately 697 million it is reasonable for them to ask whether government expects to spend every dollar of that amount before December ends.

The revised budget provides authority to incur expenditure for the purposes approved by this House it is not a requirement to spend a full amount nor is it a prediction that every payment will be made this year that distinction matters, taking the full authorised budget and speaking as though every dollar has already left the treasury would be misleading. government must be judged on what it actually spends the commitments it enters into, the controls it applies and the result it delivers. I am prepared to account on that basis. year end projections will continue to be refined as we assess revenue receipts, the progress of capital works and the timing of major transactions.

Actual spending may be below the revised budget particularly where projects or acquisitions extend into the next year the timing of those items remains subject to change and that uncertainty must be reflected in our planning but a payment moving into next year does not necessarily mean the underlying obligation has disappeared. The work may still need to be completed and the bill may still need to be paid we must carry those commitments into our planning for 2027. Money that has not yet been spent cannot simply be treated as free to fund another promise. The growth in that .ai revenue has given Anguilla important opportunities and we must use them wisely revenue influenced by international demand can change before taking on a continuing cost government must consider how that cost would be funded in a less favorable year we must also maintain reserves so that an unexpected shock does not immediately put essential services at risk.

Fiscal discipline is not just about saying no it's about deciding what is necessary checking what we can afford obtaining value for money applying proper controls and accounting for the commitments we make it is also about facing longstanding obligations in a way that protects the island's financial position over time. These are the tests by which this supplementary budget should be judged does the spending address a genuine need or obligation, is the purpose clear, are the necessary safeguards in place, can we explain the cost and account for the outcome. the answer to each of these questions Mr Speaker is yes Mr Speaker the additional 3938 million dollars sought in the supplementary budget number two addresses several distinct responsibilities it supports relief from electricity costs helps eligible people access necessary overseas medical treatment provides establishment authority to strengthen care at home advances work towards resolving towards resolving longstanding financial and property matters and supports a proposed national asset for Anguilla's representation in the United Kingdom these are not identical decisions and they should not be treated as though they are each must be considered on its own purpose cost safeguards and expected public value where a proposal is still subject to due diligence verification or approval we must say so plainly where funds are being provided to meet an urgent need we must explain why that need cannot simply be ignored our duty is to help people face in real pressures today while protecting the ability of Anguilla to meet its obligations and its responsibilities tomorrow that requires compassion sound judgment and transparency it requires us to be honest about cost discipline about commitments and prepared to explain the choices we make to the people of Anguilla I say this your questions about public spending are legitimate you are entitled to know what is being proposed why it is necessary what safeguards apply and how government will account for the money we must never treat public funds as though they belong to the government they belong to the people and they must be managed in the public interests I ask this honourable house to consider the full purpose of the proposals before it and to support the additional provision required to meet these responsibilities we will continue to account for how the funds are used to pursue value for money and to make decisions with care for both the immediate needs of our people and the long-term security of our island I thank the ministry of finance and the public officers who prepared these estimates and all public officers whose daily work helps deliver services to our community I commend supplementary budget number two of 2026 and their company Supplementary Appropriation bill to this honourable house may god continue to bless this honourable house and may god continue to bless and grow thank you Mr Speaker
